Olympic Club Dunks SJ Water Polo Team; Freshmen Gain Tie

By WADE WILSON

Out for revenge, for an early season defeat by the Spartans, the Olympic club water polo team swamped the San Jose Spartans, 15-5, in the Spartan pool Wednesday night.

Playing without the benefit of Howie Ruweeler, captain, and stellar defensive man, San Jose was outplayed, outscored, outmanned, but not outfought, by the high scoring athletic club.

Bob Bray, former UCLA water poloist and member of the Olympic team in the 1948 Olympic games, was the high scorer for the evening with five tallies. Ed Rudloff, former San Jose star, was next in the scoring column with three markers.

For San Jose, the Keeler brothers, Norm and Bob, each flipped in two goals to lead the Spartans. Al Grass added the other point for San Jose. Fred Hanssen comes in for more good praise for his outstanding defensive play and held Bray down from scoring more goals.

The Olympic club opened the scoring for the evening by flipping in three fast goals before Al Grass tossed one in for San Jose. The quarter ended with the Olympic club leading, 4-2.

In the second period, Bob Keeler scored the only point for San Jose, while Popovich scored once and Bray twice for the Bay area team.

The second half really proved the undoing of the Spartans. While Norm Keeler was scoring once for the San Jose team, six points were garnered by the offensive minded Olympic club.

Norm Keeler scored the final tally for the Spartans while the Olympic club scored twice to end the game with the Olympic club winning, 15-5.

In the preliminary game, the Jayvees of the Olympic club fought the frosh to a six to six standstill and end their eight game winning streak. The yearlings played their best game to date and were never behind until the final minutes. Armstrong took the sprint in the closing minutes of the game and went all the way to flip in the tying score.

Music Frat To Give Concert Sunday

A Founder's Day concert will be presented by Phi Mu Alpha, men's honorary music fraternity, at 8:15 p.m. Sunday, according to Charles Rhinehart, president. The concert will be given in the Little Theater.

Phi Mu Alpha is presenting this concert in observance of the Golden anniversary of its founding, said Rhinehart. The fraternity was organized at the Boston conservatory in 1898.

SJS Marching Band Plays At Rally Today; Coach Bill Hubbard Will Speak; Chimes Ring

San Jose State's marching band will lead cheering students in victory songs at a rally today at 12:30 in the outer quad. Ed Mosher, entertainment chairman of the Rally committee said Wednesday. Coach Hubbard will say a few words concerning the victorious team, Mosher added.

Hawaiian Spartans Invited To Attend Thanksgiving Feed

Students from Hawaii at SJS who would like to have Thanksgiving dinner with students from Hawaii who are attending other colleges and universities in this area are requested by Miss Bernice Van Gundy to meet at 3:30 p.m. today in the Dean of Men's office.

Hawaiian student clubs from Stanford, Mills, and the University of California are making plans for an all-Hawaiian Thanksgiving and wish to include students from Hawaii who are attending San Jose State, according to Miss Van Gundy.

The general invitation extended in Wednesday's Daily was in error; however, Spartan students were intelligent enough to see that the invitation was too good to be true and none of them accepted it.

Today Last Chance For Grads To Sign For La Torre Pix

All seniors who expect to graduate in December are urged to sign up today for La Torre graduation picture appointments if they have not already done so.

Because of publication deadlines, no further opportunity will be offered to the December graduates to have La Torre pictures taken.

To make it possible for all late-comers to sign up, the La Torre booth under the library arch will remain open until 3:30 this afternoon.

Dance Will Be Held After Aztec Game

Sophomores will sponsor "Aztec Amble," an after-game dance Friday night from 10 to 1 in the Men's gym, announced Dance Chairman Dean Price. Admission will be 25 cents per person.

Dancing will be to top bands of the nation through the medium of records, said Price. This will be the first after-game dance sponsored by the sophs this quarter.

'Junior Miss' Is New Eskay Presentation

Eskay productions will present "Junior Miss" Sunday night in the Morris Dailey auditorium, according to Co-chairman Al Raffaelli.

Film stars Peggy Ann Garner and Allyn Joslyn, Raffaelli said: "If it's comedy and lots of laughs you want, this is it," he exclaimed.

'Town And Country' Theme Of Fresno After-Game Dance

"Town and Country" will be the theme for the after-game dance following the Fresno-San Jose State game, Nov. 19, according to Bonnie Ransome, publicity chairman for the Social Affairs committee.

The dance theme will be carried out by decoration of the Men's and Women's gymnasiums as urban and rural scenes. The Women's gym will be decorated as the "country" and the Men's gym will be decorated as the "town," according to Miss Ransome.

Music for the affair will be by two orchestras, one in each gym.

Committee chairmen for the dance are as follows: Themes, Wanda Williams and Tilly Jurnevich; orchestra, Hetty Brownney; patrons, Joan O'Neil, and publicity, Bonnie Ransome.

Parking Violators Will Receive Fines, Says Police Chief

Chief Ray Blackmore of the San Jose Police department warned Spartans today to observe the white crosses which mark parallel parking places in the college area, on pain of receiving a ticket and fines.

"Particularly at intersections drivers should be careful," Blackmore warned. "A 13-foot section at each corner has been left vacant and if cars are parked in them, their owners will get tickets."

Blue Key members cooperated with the Police department in marking parking places on streets in the college area in an attempt to ease the problem created for residents by students who parked in driveways in a last desperate effort to get to class on time.

Thompson-Erlendson Recital Tomorrow

Maurine Thompson, contralto, and William Erlendson, pianist, assisted by Jean Long, accompanist, will present a joint recital tomorrow evening at 8:15 in the Little theater.

Miss Thompson's first group is a classic one represented by Handel and Hook. Her second group offers the Schumann Dichterliebe Cycle and her final group presents modern American songs.

Mr. Erlendson is doing works of Chopin in his Romantic group and a modern group of De Falla, Faure, and Debussy.

The recital is open to the public without charge.

Engineers Bar-B-Q Monday Afternoon

One-thirty this afternoon is the deadline to sign up in the Engineering office for the Engineering Society's barbecue, according to George Cashman, publicity director for the organization.

The event is slated for the barbecue pits near the Women's gym, at 4:30 Monday. There will be an admission charge of 50 cents for members. Those engineering majors who do not belong to the organization may attend by signing up in the Engineering office and paying dues for the quarter.

SPARTANS EXPECT TO ADD ANOTHER NOTCH IN VICTORY BELT TONIGHT

By CARL UNDERWOOD

A confident San Jose Spartan expects to carve another notch in his victory belt at the expense of the San Diego Aztecs Friday night at 8 o'clock on the Spartan turf. Winner but twice in seven starts this fall, the Border City eleven is a decided underdog in the post-Armistice day clash, but their rugged line may give the injury riddled San Jose squad a bad time.

Spartan Frosh Drop 21 To 12 Grid Game To Fresno Yearlings

Fresno State college freshmen showed a little too much power for the Spartan frosh footballers yesterday afternoon in Spartan Stadium as they pounded out a 21 to 12 triumph.

The visitors scored mid-way in the first period on short ground thrusts which was climaxed when Baldo Giorgi raced 32 yards to pay dirt. Clarence Brown added the additional tally. The half ended 7 to 0 in favor of the Bullpups.

A 35-yard aerial from Bob Stephenson to Fred Lariviere in the third period accounted for the second Fresno touchdown, and again Brown converted. This drive covered 75 yards.

Lou Agnelli recovered a Fresno fumble on the visitors' 28-yard stripe to set up the Spartans' fourth period marker. Faus Smyth carried for 14 yards and then John Avila tossed to Angelli who was downed on the one. Smyth plunged over. Bud Paulson's attempt for another point was wide.

A few plays later, Ed Withrow intercepted a Bullpup pass on the Fresno 45 and returned it to the 30. Ted Weber rambled to the 15 on a no-signal play, and Avila flipped to Agnelli for the touchdown. Paulson once again missed his extra point attempt.

The opponents immediately moved the pigskin 75 yards for the game's final touchdown. Don Steere punched over and Brown again added the extra point.

Smyth, Weber, and John Steele did most of the ball carrying for the Spartans, with the quarterbacking being done by Avila and Terry Bowman.

Terry Gold wrenched his knee in the first period, and this hampered the freshman's attack.

The Aztec forward wall boasts veterans in every position and outweighs the Spartans in most spots. John Simcox, T-formation quarterback sparks his team's offense, and is an effective passer, according to San Jose Line Coach Bob Bronzan who has scouted San Diego several times this year.

Dangerous Aztecs

Murry Callan, 165-lb. speedster, is dangerous both as a passer and runner from his halfback spot. End Leo Heaton and right half Dick Adair are usually on the receiving end of Simcox's and Callan's flips, while fullback Dick Simmons handles the line plunging chores.

San Diego, although failing to outscore many opponents, has managed to pile up lots of statistics. They have outgained and out-first-downed all foes to date except College of Pacific, which romped to a 41-14 victory.

The Aztecs will sorely miss Willie Steele, Olympic broad jump champ, who broke his leg earlier in the season. Steele, a former Spartan, was shaping up as one of the top broken field runners on the coast before he was forced out of action for the remainder of the year.

Several Spartans Out

Despite the thinned San Jose ranks because of injuries, the Spartans should not have too much trouble winning their fourth CCAA start. First stringers who are definitely out are left half and captain Billy Parton, and left guard Vico Bondietti. Joe Juliano, who alternates with Bondietti, and fullback Fred Silva are on the doubtful list.

Center Mario Valdastril is the latest victim of injuries. Marv Johnson has also joined the growing list of Spartan wounded, but Bill Schemmel is now ready to fill in the left half spot.

COLLEGE GOLDBRICK CONFESSES; REVEALS RULES OF THE 'ART'

By Royce Root

I was a goldbricker.

My goldbricking was done in a very professional manner, however. It was only after many years of research and study that I ventured forth into the world of hard labor to do my post-graduate work in the afore-mentioned subject. "Experience is the best teacher," I told myself, as I went hopefully out in search of practical knowledge regarding goldbricking.

My womanhood handicapped me somewhat, for the natural tendency of my sex is to seek work, rather than to avoid it. I disregarded this for I wanted to formulate my knowledge under the most accurate conditions, or, as the equal of the professional goldbricker, otherwise known as men.

And On To SJSC

Having completed the preliminary four years of high school I decided on San Jose State college as the field for my research. Rumors had reached my ears concerning the relative strictness of professors at this institution. This was for me.

I met my first obstacle almost immediately. College cost money. I had no money, so I got a job. I thought I was in luck, for there were now two fields for my studies. Later I changed my mind, for goldbricking "on the job" was so simple that it soon lost all novelty, and the hardest "work" I had to do was to scribble my name on my weekly pay checks.

But college was a different matter.

College goldbricking, as I have found out, is begun by the choice of the proper major. It need not be suited to you, or particularly what you want to do, but it must be easy. "Snap" courses are known to all grapevine systems, so a few words from the wise will send all future goldbrickers off on the right road.

The word whispered to me was "journalism." Putting a few words on pieces of paper for the rest of my life seemed the easiest thing to get out of doing, so on Reg day I hastened to the Journalism dept. and added my name to the list.

How To Goldbrick

College classes all seem quite similar after having sat in them for something like 18 months. In class I either sit in the front row or the back row, but never in the middle. The prof's gaze falls the most frequently on the middle area, and that is not conducive to successful goldbricking. The sleeping and daydreaming areas are in the front or the rear. The rear rows are most practical if the professor is near-sighted. This permits unhampered snoring in that remote, hazy (for the prof) row. I learned this from observations, however, for I am the front row, diligent note-taker appearing type. Continually gazing into the eyes of the lecturer on his platform sooner or later results in a stiff neck. It is far more simple to bend the head, as though carefully scanning the notebook on the desk, and move the pencil across the page, supposedly catching each word of the mighty prof. However, this "careful" note-taking is no more than a patiently developed, automatic doodle, which allows the doodler to daydream uninterruptedly.

The reader can rest assured that these methods are successful, for I can positively vouch for them in view of my lengthy research.

I say that I WAS a goldbricker for the benefit of my present professors who believe (I hope) that I am the eager student I appear to be. However... once a goldbricker, always a goldbricker!

THRUST and PARRY

Thrust and Parry:

In the autumn of 1946, a short memorial in honor of Spartans who lost their lives during the recent war was presented during the half-time period of one of our football games. While the entire stadium was in darkness, Student Body President Marty Taylor read a short tribute, the rooting section gave a yell, and, with the accompaniment of the school band, the entire student body stood to sing the school hymn.

I would like to suggest that such a tribute become a tradition here at San Jose State. It could be presented at the home football game scheduled closest to November 11. Realizing that such a thing could not be prepared by Friday, I urge the Rally committee to plan for the presentation of such a tribute at the soonest possible occasion.

NEWELL JOHNSON

Thrust and Parry:

We may have won the game with COP last Saturday night, but we'd never win a style parade if our drum major's uniform was ever in competition with snappy suit of our rival drum major.

Our boy is terrific in ability and performance—why not a uniform to equal him?

Dear Thrust and Parry:

Who dat man? Last week an applicant for admission to a college of dentistry (P and S) asked me to give him a recommendation. But since he neglected to write his name on the rating blank, I'm frustrated.

HEAR FROM THERE

By JACK GOLDEN

The Stanford Daily is trying to revive the "Big Game Dutch," a Stanford tradition that has fallen into almost complete disuse.

In days of yore Stanford co-eds shared the expenses incurred during "big game" week; those were the good old days. Nowadays, reports the Daily, when a girl is asked if she believes in the tradition, she'll invariably reply, "Nuts! If my date doesn't promise a hot time, I'll go with someone else."

Whether or not the Indians will revive the "dutch" is a moot question. If the tradition is brought back to life, Stanford men are urged to heed one word of warning. Do business on a cash and carry basis.

A couple of fellows didn't, and they were left holding the bills. There girls promised to pay them back drink for drink, dinner for dinner after the first of the year. The girls were engaged during Christmas vacation—to some other guys.

Chris Cagle, Army back of two decades ago, was the last, unanimous choice for All-American honors three years in succession.

Turning Leaves

By Dan Week

Once in each man's lifetime,
And once in each year,
Their comes a kind of a rest-time,
When one pauses to hear.

And the wind carries a chill,
And leaves' colors thrill,
And the voice of cold-man winter
Is heard as the clouds spill.

Forth from the back of man's mind,
Forth from his heart,

There comes a kind of restless-
ness,
That moves the crowd apart.

Fall is a time of great doings,
Turkeys, a condition of mind,
For as years and men show aged,
Fall is soft and kind.

Girls were bedecked in short dresses with big hair ribbons, wide brimmed hats, and freckles artfully scattered across their noses. Others donned old-fashioned nighties as their costumes.

Cheese, crackers, and punch were served to the guests. Music for dancing was "off the record."

P. E. Teacher Praises SJS, Likes Climate

By PAT ROAN

Would you like to go to a college where you could spend your free hours in a snow ball fight? Would you like to look out your window and see skiers coming down a near-by mountain?

Miss Eleanor M. Coombe, new member of the Women's P.E. department faculty, says those are the conditions at Washington State college in Pullman, Wash.

"I can't get used to waking up every morning and seeing the sun shining brightly. And it seems different to be on campus where everyone is wearing ordinary clothes instead of heavy ski costumes," she says.

Miss Coombe, a native of Ashland, Ore., received her A.B. degree from University of Oregon and her M.A. from the University of Washington. She was then on the faculty of Roosevelt high school in Seattle and Washington State college.

"San Jose State is quite well-known in our part of the country for its wrestling and boxing teams," she reports. "I also heard many fine things about the friendly spirit at San Jose. I must say that State has proved to be all the things I have heard."

ENTRY LIST GROWS FOR TURKEY TROT; RUNNERS PREPARE

By HANK PLYMIRE

Athletes preparing for the fifth annual Turkey Trot on Nov. 23 are turning Washington Square into a huge training camp. Dozens of runners can be seen daily going through the gruelling conditioning necessary for the arduous three-mile course. The largest turnout in the history of the event is expected by those steeped in the lore of the historic Spartan event.

"Bud" Winter, Spartan track coach, who instigated the first Trot in 1941 to stimulate interest in cross-country running, is nearly swamped with entries for the great event, he reports.

Winter recently told of Thelno Knowles, famed Spartan trackster of last season, asking for a handicap, presumably because he isn't in top shape. The coach put it up to his cross-country team and they agreed that Knowles would be an attraction in the event, but insisted that he receive no more than a three-yard lead from scratch.

At this early date, Dore Purdy, top man on the current harrier squad, would seem a likely choice to cop first honors. However, Merle Knox, winner of last year's Trot, also is counting heavily on having that "great American bird" in his pot on Thanksgiving day by defending his 15:40.5 record.

So many runners of unknown ability are entered that a prediction at this time would be entirely out of order. A few of those signed up to date are: Purdy, Knox, Knowles, James Carden, Pat Felice, Pete Fransulich, Ray Benell, Will Drew, Frank Waxon, John Jackson, Bill Wardup, Mickey Mendoza, Phil Bray, Seward Chapman, Marion Day, Rudy Contreras, Art Brickey, Elvin Riddle, Ben Slater, Vernon Young, Bill Tillama, Ted Breeden, and Robert Stiffler.

Affable Jack Faulk is anything but friendly when opposing ball carriers try to go through his right tackle spot. Faulk is a two-year letterman and comes from Daly City.

Woodwork Classes Exhibit Work In Library Cases

James N. Casey, industrial arts director, set up the woodwork exhibit in the main hallway of the library to show the work done in the beginning woodwork classes as well as to illustrate some of the objectives of the classes.

Items on exhibit are done by students with little or no experience in wood. The objective being to design and make things out of wood that will be practical and also give the beginner experience in simple tool operation, according to Mr. Casey.

Cutting boards on display were assigned as projects to give experience in working with dowl joints, squaring stock and different types of glue in relation to various kinds of wood.

Most of the bowls were done to give the student a knowledge of how to gouge soft woods and how to apply different kinds of finishes.

Each student was required to use his art background in designing an appropriate subject for his project. Industrial arts students are required to minor in the fine arts and art majors usually minor in industrial arts, according to Mr. Casey.
